Navigating the Road to Recovery: Help for Texans

- Renters who sustained losses from Harvey may be eligible for disaster assistance from FEMA and the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). FEMA grants may help renters pay for uninsured disaster-related expenses, such as:
 - Renting a new place to live when their previous home was destroyed.
 - Repair or replacement of uninsured vehicles damaged by Harvey.
 - Repair or replacement of necessary personal property—like appliances, furniture, textbooks and computers used by students, and tools used by the self-employed. (Renters may also qualify for a low-interest loan of up to $40,000 from the SBA to repair or replace personal property.)
- Help us help you. Once you register with FEMA, update any changes to your contact or banking information online at DisasterAssistance.gov. Survivors may also call FEMA at 800-621-3362 (voice, 711 or VRS) or 800-462-7585 (TTY). Due to high demand, lines may be busy. Please be patient, and try calling in the morning or evening when call volume may be lower.
- If you need help cleaning up your flood-damaged home, call (844) 965-1386 before Sept. 15, 2017. In support of Texas 2-1-1, the Cleanup Assistance Helpline is helping connect Texas survivors with the services they need in their community.
- FEMA aims to hire hundreds of Texans for a variety of temporary jobs across the state. Those selected will join the team—made up of state and federal workers, voluntary agencies and community leaders—already in place to help the state recover from Hurricane Harvey. To view job postings, go to WorkinTexas.com.

Understanding Eligibility

Texans who applied for disaster assistance after Hurricane Harvey should read their letters from FEMA carefully. Sometimes you may need to provide additional information to be eligible for assistance.

Common examples of missing information include proof of ownership of the damaged home or an insurance settlement letter. Please submit missing documentation to FEMA online, by mail or by visiting a Disaster Recovery Center.

Some of the reasons applicants do not qualify for federal disaster assistance include:

- Damaged property was not the primary residence at the time of the disaster
- Adequate insurance coverage
- Duplicate applications from the same household, where one applicant received assistance.

If you are not eligible for FEMA grants, you may still be eligible for other programs, such as state disaster unemployment assistance, free legal help or crisis counseling. Low-interest disaster loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) are also available for businesses of all sizes, private nonprofit organizations, homeowners and renters to pay for repair or replacement costs not covered by insurance or other sources. Help may also be available from voluntary agencies.

FEMA disaster assistance never duplicates insurance benefits, but if insurance is not enough to cover all the eligible damage, the initial determination may change.

U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA)

SBA offers low-interest, long-term disaster loans to businesses of all sizes (including landlords), private nonprofit organizations (such as churches and charities), homeowners, and renters to repair or replace uninsured/uncompensated disaster-damaged property. SBA disaster loans offer an affordable way for individuals and businesses to recover from declared disasters.

As of COB Sept. 7, 2017:

- Total SBA loans received: 12,394 (+1,385 from previous day)
- Total SBA loans approved: more than $63 million (+$14 million from previous day)
 - Homeowners: nearly $58.7 million (+$12.4 million from previous day)
 - Businesses: more than $4.5 million (+$1.8 million from previous day)

Apply online at disasterloan.sba.gov/ela or in person at a Disaster Recovery Center. A loan officer will determine your eligibility during processing, after reviewing any insurance or other recoveries.

- Businesses of any size may borrow up to $2 million for physical damage.
- Private non-profit organizations may borrow up to $2 million for economic injury.
- Businesses may apply for a maximum business loan (physical and/or economic injury) of $2 million.
- Homeowners may borrow up to $200,000 to repair/replace their disaster damaged primary residence.
- Homeowners and renters may borrow up to $40,000 to repair/replace damaged personal property.

Inspections

Don't wait to start cleaning up and making repairs to your flood-damaged home. After homeowners and renters apply for federal disaster assistance, a FEMA inspector will contact them to make an appointment to view disaster damage. If unable to be present for the inspection, applicants can designate someone over 18 in their household to meet with the inspector.

Homeowners may use FEMA housing assistance grants to repair or replace:

- Key systems—such as plumbing, electrical and heating
- Structural components—such as roofs, outside walls and foundations
- Windows, doors, floors, walls, ceiling, cabinetry
- Septic and well systems

FEMA advises applicants:

- Save your receipts and document damage with photos. The inspector is thoroughly trained and uses specialized software to verify disaster damage quickly. The inspection may only last 10 or 20 minutes. The inspector does not make decisions on eligibility. You will receive a letter from FEMA explaining your eligibility for assistance.
- Both homeowners and renters must provide identification and proof of occupancy—such as a lease, rent receipt or utility bill. Homeowners will also be asked to provide proof of ownership—such as a property deed or title, property insurance policy or tax receipts.
- Ask to see photo IDs of inspectors. Although there are other legitimate inspectors in the field—such as county building inspectors or insurance adjustors—beware of frauds. Your FEMA housing inspector will have your nine-digit case number assigned at registration. Inspections are free.

US Postal Service: Your mail is safe and sound

Many homes and businesses in Houston sustained flood damage as a result of Harvey, including a number of post offices. The U.S. Postal Service (USPS) apologizes to its customers for any inconvenience caused by the temporary closures. USPS assures Texans that their mail has been secured and safe. As water recedes in the impacted areas and conditions improve, the Postal Service will reopen those affected offices and restore mail delivery as quickly as possible.

Customers may visit the Postal Service website, download the smartphone app, or call (800) ASK-USPS (275-8777) to find more information or an alternate USPS location where they can retrieve their mail. The Post Office remains open at usps.com, anytime and anywhere.

Transitional Sheltering Assistance

FEMA may provide Transitional Sheltering Assistance (TSA) to eligible disaster survivors who are unable to return to their homes for an extended period of time and need shelter. TSA pays for eligible disaster survivors to stay in a hotel or motel for a short time.

To be eligible for TSA, individuals and households must:

- Applicants must first register with FEMA. Their eligibility will be automatically determined.

For those eligible, FEMA will authorize and fund TSA through direct payments to participating hotels/motels. The list of approved hotels is available at DisasterAssistance.gov or call the FEMA Helpline (800) 621-3362 (voice, 711/VRS-Video Relay Service) (TTY: (800) 462-7585).

The applicant is responsible for all other costs associated with lodging and amenities. Individuals and households not eligible will be referred to local agencies or voluntary organizations.

Locate a Shelter

If you and your family cannot live in your flooded home and need a place to stay, please download the FEMA mobile app and look under Disaster Resources for a list of nearby shelters. Or call 800-REDCROSS (733-2767). During a humanitarian crisis, the American Red Cross (ARC) provides food, comfort and shelter to those who need it—without regard to race, religion or citizenship status.

Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA)

- Disaster Unemployment Assistance benefits are available to Texans whose jobs were affected by Hurricane Harvey. This may include people not normally eligible for unemployment benefits, such as self-employed persons and farm workers.
